

Plastic Continent / KOHJI SUWA

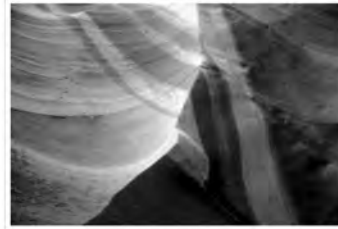

#1

#2

#3

#4

#5

#6

#7

#8

Artist Statement

The power of mother nature is great. It takes a long time to cut the earth and create formative beauty. It takes a long time so daunting. A little bit by little. But it sometimes breaks in a moment and creates a new surface. And new beauty is born again. We can not see the same expression again.

I think it resembles a big city "TOKYO" I live in.

A large city, surrounded by large buildings, where many people live, always looks like the same expression and changes every day. It looks like it's changing a bit and slightly. But sometimes a big earthquake comes and destroys everything. And over time, a new everyday begins.

Our urban life seems like a man-made, non-natural act that is far from natural.

No. All our actions are natural. It's not far from nature. All is the great nature that God created.

I feel that way from such natural beauty.

Archival Pigment Ink Print

Print Year: 2006

Paper: Hahnemuhle Bamboo

Mat Size: 16 x 20 inch

Image size: 10 x 15 inch

Edition 5 (SOLD OUT)

Article:

KON-YO was introduced by art magazine "DRUG No.6" , in 2006.

Kohji Suwa

<https://www.lightparty.jp>

kohji.suwa.photography@gmail.com

<https://www.lightparty.jp/photo/plastic-continent/>